

Paper works, so transformation needs to be much more than just 'digital'

Transforming how we make health decisions.
Shared decisions informed by outcomes.

Simply digitising often leads to worse experiences. To digitally transform is to drive positive system change, supported by safe, intelligent, accessible technology.

Our mission of enabling shared, data-driven decisions is what guides how we do digital transformation.

We asked ourselves, how can we better understand the opportunities?

'Accelerate', funded by the Welsh Government, are supporting our collaboration with the Assistive Technologies Innovation Centre, who are experts in using user research to solve complex problems.

We're hearing...

- "I didn't understand what the risks meant for me"
- "There was no support after being discharged"
- "The real impacts on my life weren't even mentioned!"

We're doing...

- Patient stories to give context to surgical risks
- Guided recovery information post-op
- Further research to understand real life impacts
